Viking Poem

9 Bold Vikings travelled in longboats from across the sea
20 with sails full of wind and a desire to be free.
28 "Let's go Ostmen!" they yelled as they landed.
36 Many scared Britons just ran away and hid.

44 When a new wave of boats came ashore,
51 poor King Ethelred could take no more.
58 So Danegeld he raised and readily paid
66 as a way of slowing any further raids.

75 But the Danegeld would not contain the Viking's need.
83 They returned again and again full of greed.
91 And Ethelred 'the unready' became the king's nickname
103 So he fled across the sea to live his days in shame.

111 In the end, many Vikings preferred to stay
119 and adopted or adapted to the British way.
126 They brought their families and settled here
135 and soon all of Britain had nothing to fear.
